Volume No: 47

Here we are at the last edition of the newsletter for this school year. We hope you have enjoyed reading the newsletter this year. Any comments or suggestions are appreciated. Please email to alun.randell@tes.tp.edu.tw.

For those members of the school community leaving TES and heading off for new exciting adventures either in Taiwan or abroad, we wish you all the best for the future. And, of course, to everyone.... HAVE A FANTASTIC HOLIDAY!

Inside this week's rather huge journal...

- We find out how the French Section have finished off their year
- Alex in Y4 and Ashley in Y6 tell us all about a recent competition to win a place at Space Camp in the US!! Find out how they did.
- We read about Y4's rip to the Science Museum

We also have ..

- Our regular news from Mrs Martin and Ms Corry including news about staff who are leaving and the new staff who will be arriving in August.
- The British PTA give us the latest news and upcoming dates. Apologies for a missing PTA page in the last edition. The article has been reprinted in this edition.
- 5 pages... yes 5 pages of book recommendations for summer reading from our library staff.

Dear Parents

I can hardly believe I am sitting here writing the last newsletter of the year, the last 10 months have gone by so quickly.

I will be running my normal "Summer Scrapbook" competition this year, with a prize in each year group for the best entry. I have talked to the children in assembly about the idea of a summer scrapbook, but I thought I'd tell you about it as well. The idea behind doing a summer scrapbook is to keep the children's interest in learning going. The 8 weeks away from school can be very critical for such young children, and they can often forget how to read and write key words they have learnt over the year. Doing a little bit of reading and writing every day can help them keep their key words in their memory. The idea is that they write about their day—sticking in photographs, postcards, entrance tickets, information leaflets etc to enhance their writing. When judging the scrapbooks, we look for ones that the children have done independently with as little help as possible from Mum, Dad or older brothers and sisters. Being so young, they obviously need help, but we do not want other people to do the work for them.

Please make sure the completed scrapbooks are in school by Friday 10th September, clearly labeled with their name and NEW class. I will put a table outside the Infant Hall for you to put the scrapbooks on.

I wish you all a lovely summer holiday—good bye to those of you who are moving on, and I look forward to seeing those of you who are staying in Taiwan next year. I have loved working with your children this year, and I would like to thank you all for your support.

Best wishes

Ruth Martin

Dear Parents,

This is the last newsletter of the year and there is definitely an air of excitement around the school with the summer holiday fast approaching.

However there is also a feeling of sadness for all in our school community, as we say goodbye to children, parents and staff. This is part of the fabric of an international school such as ours but it doesn't make it any easier. The TES Yearbook was sent home yesterday and, particularly for those who are leaving, it will spark many memories of the exciting events and good friendships enjoyed here at school.

Today we said goodbye to our Year Six children in our Leavers' Assembly. They have been a wonderful year group who have embraced the learning challenges of this year with such enthusiasm. Their help in supporting the school as Playtime Friends, Junior Librarians, Computer Technicians and Assembly helpers has been much appreciated. Following the assembly, parents, the Year Six staff and children enjoyed an afternoon tea provided by the PTA. Thank you to all for helping at such a busy time of the year. We sipped our tea and enjoyed freshly baked scones whilst being entertained by our excellent Junior Section orchestra.

To celebrate the end of the school year, each year group has had (or are about to have) a class party. The teachers would like to pass on their heartfelt thanks to the Class Reps and other parents who have helped tremendously, not just with these events but also with helping in class, trips, assemblies and the many other events throughout the year.

Wednesday 30th June is the last day of term and we finish at the normal time. For those of you returning in the next academic year we start school on Monday 30th August. On arrival at school please could all children go straight to the playground. Teachers will be on duty from 7:40am. If it is raining then the children go to the cafeteria where they will be collected by their teacher. On Tuesday 31st August the children will follow the normal routine of going to their classroom on arrival at school.

I would like to wish you all a great summer and hope that you have an enjoyable time with your families.

For those of you moving on to new countries, homes and schools I wish you all the best for the future and hope that your children will take away fond memories of their time here.

I am visiting family in New Zealand during the holidays and am rather looking forward to frosty mornings and big blue skies. I will be returning to Taiwan in the middle of August so if you need to get in touch with me before school starts please contact the school office on +886 (02) 8145 9007 Ext 501/502.

Kind regards

Adele Corry

Astronaut Competition

My name is Alex , I am 9 years old (nearly 10) and in Year 4 at TES. I recently competed in a competition that I would like to tell you about. I first entered the astronaut competition in January. I prepared all kinds of things, including: running, Chinese and English impromptu speeches as well as cycling. I prepared really hard because the prize was going to U.S.A. for 10 days. I really wanted to win!

There were three stages of the competition, the first one was a space information test {before Easter break}.The second, an English grammar test, a Chinese impromptu speech and a race {running, balance beam and tire hopping} also on the Easter break. The final part of the competition was a cycling test, a dart shooting test, a stone finding test and an English impromptu speech. I tried really hard on all the tests and competitions, and finally I completed the competition. Happily, I came 2nd place.

As a result, I am going to the U.S.A. on August, fourteen. I am going to the Space camp, Disneyland and Universal Studios. I feel excited and happy about my trip. I would like to thanks my mum and dad for helping me to prepare for the competition and cheering me on!

Little Astronaut Contest

Hi everyone, I'm Ashley in Year 6 and I participated the 'Little Astronaut Contest' this year. It is open for 7-11 years old children. If you win the competition, you and one of your parents would be able to go to USA and attend the Space Camp at the U.S Space & Rocket Centre. At the end of the trip, you could go to Disneyland for 2 days and 1 day at Universal Studio all for free! Isn't that wonderful!

A lot of children from Taipei, Tainan and Taichung entered the competition this year. The first stage was to test you and your parent on space knowledge. To prepare for this competition, I read many space books and made notes. I enjoyed the process because I always want to know more facts about space. In the second stage, they will test your English and physical ability. Besides, I had to deliver a 1-minute speech in Chinese from a topic randomly picked from a box.

At the final stage, they will test your physical ability, concentration and balancing skills which are basic requirements for an astronaut. Like the second stage, I had to make a 1-minute speech but this time was in English. The topic was also not known until the minute you draw lots. To prepare for the final, I had to practice cycling, shooting, rock-climbing and archery after school. All these activities are new to me. I learned many new things and skills that I have never tried before.

It was a very valuable and unforgettable experience even if I didn't win. At last, I was really lucky and I got in! IT'S POSSIBLE! I am really looking forward to a very special summer vacation this year!

I hope that some of you will join this contest next year and I look forward to sharing the space camp experience with all of you after the summer holiday!

Year 4 Visit

the Science Museum

Last Wednesday, 9th

June, our teachers took us to the Taipei Science Museum. We had a great time there and certainly learnt a lot. It was a very hot and sunny day so luckily we caught coaches, even though the Museum is actually very close to school.

When we arrived at the Museum the year group split into two smaller groups. One group went to the park to design, make and test paper boats. The aim was to design a boat that would hold as many cubes as possible. Of course some boats sunk...but that was fun, it cooled us off when we had to fish them out! The other group went into the Science Museum where it was much cooler, to explore the top floor. They had fun experimenting with forces and learning about electricity. After an hour, the groups swapped over so that each group could complete both activities.

We all had a fantastic time and loved the activities that the teachers had planned for us. Here are some quotes from the students.

"There was an automatic ramp, we were able to slide down it. It was really, really fun", Ethan.

'It was a really fun idea to go the Museum, I loved the trip', Marine.

"I rode a bicycle with square tyres, it was cool," Saloni.

"I really enjoyed making our boats in the park. My boat held 64 cubes," Hannah.

'It was exciting when I rode on the 30 degrees slide,' Alex.

"I got dizzy on the spinning thing, " Timmy.

"I made the beach ball float on a jet of air," Hermes.

La préparation de la fête de fin d'année de l'école.

Contrainte de calendrier oblige, cette dernière newsletter paraîtra avant le spectacle de fin d'année. Mais c'est l'occasion de présenter quelques préparatifs en cours, le travail des enseignants et surtout des enfants pour ce grand moment.

Les CEI préparent un spectacle intitulé le zapping, et ils ont fait des recherches sur les différentes émissions de télévision sur lesquelles ils pourraient zapper.

Enregistrement de la bande son.

Les GS de leur côté ont constitué un conte à leur manière à partir des diverses lectures qu'ils ont pu faire durant cette année. Ils préparent les costumes, le décor et la bande sonore depuis trois semaines!

Section Française

Les répétitions ont lieu dans l'auditorium pour préparer au mieux les élèves pour vendredi soir.

Les élèves de PS et de MS préparent leur chanson en anglais et en français, tandis que la classe de CE2 a fait entièrement un court métrage à partir du Petit Nicolas de Sempé. La classe de Gilles nous réserve une surprise avec un spectacle dont il faut deviner le thème.

Tous les élèves et leurs parents attendent avec envie vendredi soir!

Il ne reste plus qu'à vous souhaiter une très bonne soirée et un très bon spectacle qui clôturera cette belle année scolaire!

Dear Parents,

The SUMMER HOLIDAY is coming in just one week!

Please keep in mind that starting from June 28 to 30, everyone is welcome to take up to FIVE books for the holiday. Read carefully about the suggested books which the Library staff selected from Caldecott and Newbery Medal Winner and Honor Books, which are the two most highly regarded awards for children's literature. The selections here are only a start. Feel free to search for more award-winning books via our online search engine, OPAC.

Winnie the Witch: Three Story Treasury

Winnie the witch has a black house. The interior of the house is also black the rooms, walls, furniture, utensils, etc. Her cat is Wilbur, black with bright green eyes. When Wilbur closes his eyes to doze off, he disappears into the background of Winnie's home, and she accidentally tramples him again and again. This practical witch, who loves her feline friend, changes his color to green. But when he's outside in the grass, the problem recurs. She then waves her wand over him five times and turns him into a five-color cat, but Wilbur is mortified and climbs up a tree to hide. Winnie brings him back to his original state and instead uses colorization on the big black house. In true Halloween spirit, Paul's pictures of the witch's house are spooky and most imaginative.

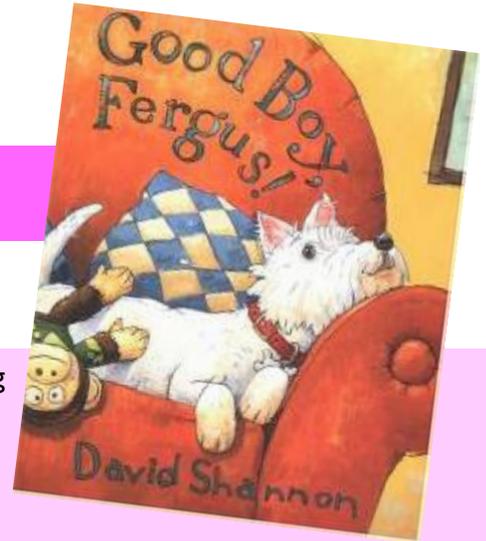

Suggested Year Group:

Infant

Her palette of gray, black and white in the opening pages reveals all the eerie details of Wilbur and Winnie's existence, and the technicolor transformation is a startling surprise. Thomas's story is simply stated, with a cauldron-full of original humor.

Suggested Year Group:

Good Boy, Fergus!

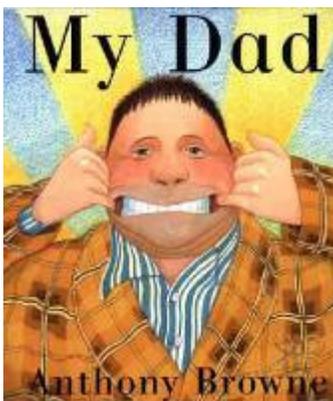

Reading this story is like having a romp with the funniest dog in town. As the book opens, two lines of text (Good morning, Fergus!/Want to go out?) frame the irrepressible face of a furry white terrier, black button eyes glistening with excitement. Subsequent pages feature the pups adventures chasing cats and motorbikes, scratching and being scratched, playing in the dirt, begging for meatballs, and riding in the car. No matter what the animal does, his masters refrain is...you guessed it. Readers see everything from a terrier-sized perspective, and they rarely see anyone but Fergus. When he is trampling his owner to request a walk, they catch just a glimpse of a human face. The motorcyclists face is so covered with gear as to be generic. The more intimate portraits here are of things of interest to Fergus—spaghetti and meatballs, for example, or the whipped cream that he likes on his kibble. Shannons artwork is like an overstuffed sofa: colorful, homey, and bouncy. A riotous book to unleash on all readers—even those who own cats.

My Dad

With well-measured doses of hyperbole, sentiment and humor, Browne (Voices in the Park) delivers an endearing paean to patriarchs. "He's all right, my dad," begins the young narrator, pictured only in the final painting, receiving a giant hug from the object of his affection. Each page celebrates a specific quality or accomplishment of Dad, illustrated with characteristically witty panache. Accompanying the proclamation that "My dad isn't afraid of ANYTHING, even the Big Bad Wolf," is a picture of the fellow showing an overall-clad wolf the door, as Red Riding Hood and three pigs peer out from behind a tree in the background; in another, the boy thinks his dad ranks as one of the three tenors ("a brilliant singer," Dad is flanked by Pavarotti and Domingo). Some of Browne's playful imagery is obvious: the plaid pattern of Dad's bathrobe appears on a piece of toast popping out of the toaster, and he assumes the likeness of a variety of animals as the child announces that "My dad can eat like a horse," "swim like a fish," etc. Yet sometimes the artist creates some slyer graphic pranks. A childlike drawing of a sun that hangs on the wall on the opening page, for example, later appears in a smaller dimension as a button on Dad's pajamas. And as the father bounces a soccer ball on his knee, trees in the distance are shaped like balls used in various sports.

Olivia

Suggested Year Group:

Year 3

Olivia would be Eloise, if Eloise were a pig. She is good at singing 40 very loud songs and is very good at wearing people out. And scaring the living daylight out of her little brother, Ian, particularly when he copies her every move. She is also quite skilled at reproducing Jackson Pollock's "Autumn Rhythm #30" on the walls at home. When her mother tucks her in at night and says, "You know, you really wear me out. But I love you anyway," Olivia precociously pronounces, "I love you anyway too."

The PaperBoy

Pilkey (When Cats Dream; the Dragon books) is at his best in this highly atmospheric work. Here his trademark color palette glows quietly under the cover of darkness; violet skies and emerald-shadowed fields predominate until the explosion of a fiery dawn. Early one cold morning a boy and his dog rise to deliver newspapers. In almost reverential silence they eat breakfast, prepare the newspapers, then step out into the chill, leaving sleeping parents and sister inside. Pilkey perfectly captures the thrill of being out early, seeing the world so new and having it all to oneself. Something magical is at work on this most ordinary of paper routes, tangible in the controlled hush of the narrative and in the still, moon-lit landscapes. And, at last, as his family awakens to golden sunlight, the paperboy returns to his bed, prepared to enter another familiar Pilkey world: dream-land.

Growing Up Behind the Iron Curtain

Suggested Year Group:

Year 4

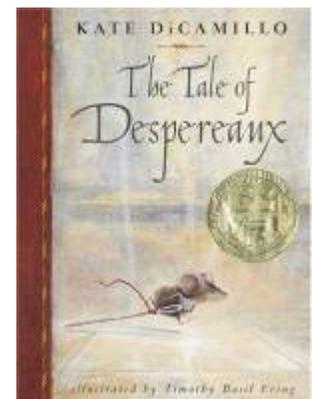

In an autobiographical picture book that will remind many readers of Marjane Satrapi's memoir Persepolis (2003), Sís' latest, a powerful combination of graphic novel and picture book, is an account of his growing up in Czechoslovakia under Soviet rule. Written in several stands, the somewhat fragmented narrative never dilutes the impact of the boldly composed panels depicting scenes from Sís' infancy through young adulthood. Throughout, terrific design dramatizes the conflict between conformity and creative freedom, often through sparing use of color; in many cases, the dominant palette of black, white, and Communist red threatens to swallow up young Peter's freely doodled, riotously colored artwork. The panels heighten the emotional impact, as when Sís fleeing the secret police, emerges from one spread's claustrophobic, gridlike sequence into a borderless, double-page escape fantasy. Even as they side with Peter against fearsome forces beyond his control, younger readers may lose interest as the story moves past his childhood, and most will lack crucial historical context. But this will certainly grab teens—who will grasp both the history and the passionate, youthful rebellions against authority—as well as adults, many of whom will respond to the Cold War setting. Though the term picture book for older readers has been bandied about quite a bit, this memorable title is a true example.

The Tale of Despereaux

This lively junior novelization of the film The Tale of Despereaux tells the story of several unlikely heroes: Despereaux, a brave mouse banished to the dungeon for speaking with a human; Roscuro, a good-hearted rat who loves light and soup, but is exiled to darkness; Pea, a Princess in a gloomy castle who is prisoner to her father's grief; and Mig, a servant girl who longs to be a Princess, but is forced to serve the jailer.

Princess Academy

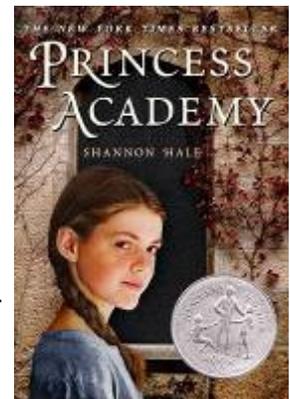

I, Juan de Pareja

This 1965 publication won a Newbery Medal and top awards in England and France. De Trevino's masterpiece is enhanced by Ward's glorious narration.

The colorful text is presented so artistically that simply listening to all of the different voices and accents is a great pleasure. Juan is an African slave who assists Spanish painter Velázquez and himself becomes an accomplished artist in spite of the prohibition against a slave learning to paint. The diverse European accents, as well as Juan's African speech patterns as a child and an adult, are masterfully recreated.

Miri lives on a mountain where, for generations, her ancestors have quarried stone and lived a simple life. Then word comes that the king's priests have divined her small village the home of the future princess. In a year's time, the prince himself will come and choose his bride from among the girls of the village. The king's ministers set up an academy on the mountain, and every teenage girl must attend and learn how to become a princess. Miri soon finds herself confronted with a harsh academy mistress, bitter competition among the girls, and her own conflicting desires to be chosen and win the heart of her childhood best friend. But when bandits seek out the academy to kidnap the future princess, Miri must rally the girls together and use a power unique to the mountain dwellers to save herself and her classmates.

TES Summer Fair 2010

The rain did not dampen our guests' spirits at the TES Summer Fair on Saturday, May 29th. In spite of the not-so-summery weather—overcast with gushes of rain—the atmosphere around the EPC Wenlin Campus quickly warmed up. Eight hundred and eighty five (885) attendees arrived in the mood for shopping, browsing, playing, and snacking.

Colourful stalls on the school's grounds offered a great variety of gently used books, CDs, toys, clothes, sport equipment, household wares and appliances. A cozy indoor flea market in the Infant Section, for example, featured nice home décor as well as a fine selection of books and toys. Goods at the Junior Atrium sold like hot cupcakes. One family, for example, sold just about all their "merchandise." You could furnish your child's room and still have enough money leftover to purchase some fine table settings. You could, finally, easily find an outfit that would work beautifully with your new surroundings. It is always so nice to find a new use for items that you no longer need. Rather than being thrown out, older toys, clothes and books found happy new owners.

British Section PTA (BSPTA) also sold new books to raise funds for school improvements. BSPTA organized this event together with the Parent Support Council (PSC), an umbrella volunteer organizations that helps PAs and PTAs in all the school sections work together.

The proceeds quickly tallied up to NT$73,500, which will be used to fund projects in the British Infant and Junior Sections.

BS PTA

BS PTA's net take from this event-
NT$73,500

In an effort to satisfy as many diverse expectations and tastes as possible, the organizers invited various food vendors. BSPTA also sold drinks to raise additional funds. Dance music blasting from speakers in the playground provided a boost to the atmosphere.

Games, faux tattoos and henna art, set up in a covered walkway to keep everybody dry, attracted lots of takers. Many Fair goers went home with loads of books and tapes that will prove a very worthy addition to their home library. The expense (a mere NT$10 – 50 per book) was very much worthwhile, considering the money will be given to a good cause. The organizers and vendors also donated many unsold goods to local charities.

BS PTA would like to thank all the dedicated teachers and parents who volunteered to make this event a fantastic success. Ms. Adele Corry, the Head of the Junior Section, and Ms. Ruth Martin, the Head of the Infant Section, for example, both greeted arriving guests and sold entrance tickets. We also would like to thank our sponsors such as Carrefour and the Asian Tigers for their generous support. Thank you everybody! See you next year!

TES, How did we do this year ?

The year is coming to a close. How did we do? Did we serve well our TES community? Did we work well with other sections at our school? Did we succeed in reaching the larger

We believe that we can answer these questions positively. The year featured several large social events that the BSPTA organized or helped organize. Furthermore, together with other volunteers, we strengthened the Parent Support Council (PSC) that serves as a platform for all the TES associations to meet and cooperate. We also reached an ever better understanding with the secondary and high school sections. Last but not least, we successfully continued to develop a fruitful cooperation with the School's administration. We opened all the large school events to the general public, and hundreds of local residents participated. We helped sponsor local charities with donations of goods and, through the PSC, funds. Last but not least, we made considerable preparations to help the upcoming BS PTA team to carry on our work in the 2010/11 school year.

While we began the 2009/10 school year with a coffee morning and the Annual General Meeting in September, it was the Fireworks Night in November that became really visible with over 2,000 guests and spectacular pyrotechnic displays. Games, entrance fees, and foods and drinks sales boosted our budget. While we will not be able to continue this tradition in the upcoming school year, we are preparing to offer an equally exciting Easter time event.

BS PTA

Immediately after the Fireworks Night, we joined forces with the Parents Support Council in preparation for the Christmas Bazaar, which we held at TES in late November. Needless to say, it is a huge attraction. BS PTA not only organized and coordinated its own stalls and activities, but also helped year groups and classes in the British Section set their stalls. A large number of spectators filed onto the Primary Campus and relished fine foods, drinks and activities. Sales of holiday decorations and children's performances constituted other important aspects of this event. Christmas Bazaar offered an additional opportunity for us to raise funds.

During the spring of 2010, BS PTA busied itself with smaller but important projects. We decided how to distribute the raised funds between the Junior and Infant Sections. We organized a snack bar at the Parents' Café. We actively engaged in numerous library projects, including the author visit during the Book Week. We helped order books from an international publishing house.

And we even organised volunteers to paint a cheerful mural at the first floor of our library. BS PTA also helped secure the PSC funding for new cushions and blinds at the library. If all of this was not enough, we also organized and manned refreshments bars at Christmas and music shows.

With the summer quickly approaching, we rolled our sleeves up one more time to work together with the PSC and secondary and high school PAs. This time we cooperated on the Summer Fair. The event was very successful despite the rain and raised a considerable sum of money from entrance fees, merchants' stall payments, and refreshments. At the Summer Fair, the BSPTA also offered imported children books, sales of which further boosted our revenues from the event, which will be ploughed back into the British Infant and Junior sections next year.

*This has been a good year and,
with your help,
we hope to make 2010/11
better yet!*

Farewell from the Chairperson

As the year draws to a close and the BS PTA reflects on all it has achieved this year, it is amazing to see how many events we have been involved in and how much money we have been able to raise, all of which will directly benefit our children in the Infant and Junior Sections next year. The BS PTA Committee has been a dedicated, hard working and fun group this year and along with the help of Class Reps and volunteers at events, we can rightly be proud of all that has been accomplished.

On a personal note, I am sad to be bidding farewell to the BS PTA Committee and to TES, as well as the larger Taipei community, as I leave with my family for a new adventure in Abu Dhabi. Being Chairperson of the BS PTA has ensured my final year in Taipei has been a memorable one, as well as very busy but highly rewarding!

I hope the Committee continues to thrive next year and I wish the BS PTA all the best, whilst hoping the families and staff of the TES community have a wonderful summer break.
